IMPORTANT NOTICE.—THOMPSONS' NEWLY INVENTED AND SUPERIOR TRUSS.—This Truss is the latest invention, and its superiority over all other Trusses is admitted by all who have used them. It is not only easy and agreeable in its application (causing no irritation or inconvenience) but the relief it affords is immediate, and the progress of the cure which it is sure to effect, rapid and certain. Multitudes who have tried, can testify to its extraordinary virtues. All those who are interested in this subject, may be satisfied there is no exageration in the above description, by calling at the subscriber's rooms, 297 Washington street, (in the same house Dr S. C. Hewett keeps his rooms,) where the Trusses will be exhibited and applied by one acquainted with its use and the complaint it is intended to heal, viz, by DR THOMPSON, of Brattleborough, Vt. the inventor of the Truss.

TODD'S PATENT STEAM FEATHER RENOVATER, the latest improvement for cleansing and improving FEATHERS AND FEATHER BEDS—now in use.—By it, they are cleansed by Steaming, and dried by the heat of Steam, without any injury to the feathers; offensive smells are removed, and insects destroyed; and feathers, which have become matted and hard, by ten, twenty, or thirty years use, are restored to a softness and liveliness resembling new ones.

The public are respectfully informed that one of said Machines is in operation at No 186, Purchase street.

On notice given, beds will be taken from dwellings, dressed, and carefully returned the same day, without trouble to the owner.

The operation is so simple and reasonable, and the good results so apparent, that it needs but to be known to be approved. Please call and examine, and then judge for your elves.

Proposals will be considered for running this route as follows, viz:

Leave Baltimore at 2 p m, and arrive at Frederick by 8 p m.

Leave Frederick at 6 a m, and arrive at Baltimore by 12 m.

No 1373. Baltimore to Frederick, Md. by turnpike, 45 miles.

No 1391. Frederick to Cumberland, Md. 91 miles.

No 1418. Cumberland to Wheeling, Va. 131 miles.

No 1465. Wheeling to Columbus, O. 132 miles.

Mail to be carried daily and back at the rate of six miles an hour, running time, in vehicles constructed according to a model, to be prescribed by the Department, in which the mails shall be secured under lock and key, with the privilege of carrying three passengers only, in seats made for the purpose on the outside.

Proposals will be considered for running these routes at any greater number of miles per hour, running time, not exceeding ten.

The time allowed by the Department for opening the mails at all the Post Offices will be fixed and added to the running time on each route.

The time of leaving will be fixed and varied according to the interests of the Department, but not so as to increase the speed.

No 1451. Columbus to Cincinnati, O. 115 miles, daily and back, at a speed of five miles an hour, running time, and in every other respect like the foregoing four routes.

Proposals will be considered for running this route at a greater speed, or at a greater during the summer, and the same or less during the winter.

No 1997 extended, Philadelphia, Pa. to Norfolk, Va. about 270 miles and back daily; to be run, during the season of steamboat navigation, down the Delaware river, by the Newcastle and Frenchtown railroads, or by the Delaware and Chesapeake canals, and by the Chesapeake bay direct to Portsmouth and Norfolk, Va. in steamboats and railroad cars, or canal boats, as follows, viz:

Leave Philadelphia at 2 p m, and arrive at Portsmouth by 5 p m next day.

Leave Portsmouth at 10 a m, and arrive at Philadelphia by 1 pm next day.

Or, leave Philadelphia at 6 a m, and arrive at Portsmouth and Norfolk by 9 am next day; returning as above.

This service to commence at Baltimore when the navigation of the Delaware river is obstructed by ice: the time of departure &c. to be fixed by the Department.

Proposals are also invited for a steamboat mail once or twice daily, to connect this line with Baltimore during the season of navigation, at any convenient point.

All intermediate post offices on the several lines advertised, must be supplied with the mail according to the directions of the Department.

On the railroad and steamboat lines, the throughgoing mails will be carried in fire-proof cars or boxes, secured from wet and mounted on wheels, or to be mounted upon landing, which must be taken to and from the post offices at the beginnings and ends of routes. The postmasters, after putting in their mails, will carefully lock the car or box, in which condition it will remain during its transportation from one end of the route to the other. Mail bags will be furnished for the supply of intermediate offices.

On all the routes advertised, an agent or armed guard, furnished by the department to deliver, look after, and protect the mails, will be carried without charge, if required by the department.

The service will commence on the first day of July next, or at any time thereafter which may be fixed on by mutual agreement.

Each route is to be bid for separately. The route, the sum, and the residence of the bidder, should be distinctly stated in the bid. The sum should be stated by the year.

No proposal will be considered unless it be accompanied by a guaranty, signed by one or more responsible persons in the following form, viz:

"The undersigned, guarantee that if his bid for carrying the mail from to be accepted by the Post master General, shall enter into an obligation, prior to the first day of September next, with good and sufficient sureties, to perform the service proposed. Dated 1837."

This should be accompanied by the certificate of a postmaster, or other satisfactory testimony, that the guarantors are men of property, and able to make good their guaranty.

The Postmaster General reserves the right of changing the schedule hours; of deducting pay for mail failures; of imposing reasonable fines for delinquencies, and annulling the contract for repeated failures, or gross misconduct.

The proposals should be sent to the Department sealed, endorsed "Mail Proposals, under advertisement of 10th April, 1837, and addressed to the First Assistant Postmaster General.

SARSAPARILLA

READ, REFLECT, DECIDE.—The virtues of Sarsaparilla have been celebrated for more than two hundred years, during which long period it has been in more or less repute—every thing, however, depends upon its mode of preparation, and unless taken in considerable quantities, and persevered in for some time, it is perfectly useless. When properly prepared and administered, it is a sovereign remedy in Rheumatic affections, Scrofula, and all cutaneous complaints, such as obstinate eruptions of the skin, pimples, or pustules on the face, biles which arise from an impure habit of body, scaly eruptions, syphilitic complaints, mercurial diseases, ulcers, diseases of the liver, general debility, and all impurities of the blood. The truth of these remarks have all been tested and declared, by some of the most eminent French and English chemists and physicians—among the former are Lavoisien, Chaptal, Pelletier, and others, of Paris, and among the latter, Sir Astley Cooper, Sir John Home, Abernethy, and Letsom, in London.

Wallace's Concentrated Syrup of Sarsaparilla, now offered to the public, contains not only the virtues of this particular article, but also that far famed wood, called the Wood of Life, and among other important additions, forming altogether that well known composition under the name of Lisbon Diet Drink, a medicine peculiarly calculated for the complaints above enumerated. The manner of preparing the Sarsaparilla by Dr. Wallace, having been made known to Dr. Harrington, Dr. Smith, Dr. Parker, Dr. Goodrich, Dr Adams, and Dr. Carter, of the different cities in the U. States they have evinced their approbation of it, by invariably prescribing it to their patients, and recommending it to their professional brethren; all doubts and cavils therefore upon the superior merits of this composition must cease forever, but in order to satisfy the most incredulous, the particular mode of preparation is here subjoined, by which it will be perceived that it is of four times the stength of any ever before sold, it behooves the purchaser therefore to look well to that fact and purchase only of the proprietor's sole Agent, at the Druggist store corner of Milk and Bath streets, directly opposite Pearl street, where, for more than two years, it has met with the greatest approbation—Price $1 a junk bottle, or six for $5—each bottle sealed with the initials of the Proprietor.

Mode of Preparation. In addition to the strongest decoction of the root, there is also subjoined, the costly extract of Sarsaparilla, and the fluid extract, the former prepared by Mandee, Weaver & Mandee, of Wolveshampton, the greatest Chemists in England, and the latter a well known Chemist in America.

☞ Remember the place of sale, at the Druggist store corner of Milk and Bath streets, opposite Pearl st.

N. B. The above preparation is the very best medicine which can be used during, and on the approach of Spring.

BOSTON MORNING POST.

CUSTOM HOUSE BONDS.

The annexed communication from the Secretary of the Treasury, occasioned by the visit of the New York Committee to Washington, was received by the collector of that port on Thursday evening, and by him was immediately handed over for publication, for the information of the merchants.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, May 8th, 1837.

SIR—I have been directed by the President of the United States to communicate to you the views of this Department in relation to the request, recently made to him by a Committee, appointed at a respectable meeting held in the City of New York. The request was, "that instructions may be given to prevent the commencing of suits in any of the collection districts upon unpaid Bonds until after the first day of January next."

With every disposition on the part of the President and this Department to gratify any wishes of the mercantile portion of the community, and with a deep solicitude to alleviate as far as possible the pressure which exists in their pecuniary affairs, it is to be regretted, that instructions cannot be given for so protracted a delay, and in so general a manner, without a departure from long established usage, and great inconvenience to the merchants and the Treasury.

By the Act of Congress of the 2d of March, 1799, it is provided, that "where any bond for the payment of duties shall not be satisfied on the day it may become due, the collector shall forthwith and without delay cause a prosecution to be commenced for the recovery of the money thereon by action or suit at law."

No authority or discretionary power is entrusted expressly to the President or this department to dispense with this imperative direction, given by Congress to the Collectors of the Customs. The general practice has been opposed to either the existence or the exercise of any legal authority except in Congress to grant delay in the payment of such bonds until after an action is instituted or judgment confessed. But after a suit has been brought, the Collector's duty has been considered as fulfilled, and this department, through its proper agents, has, in special cases, and in that stage of the proceedings, deemed it lawful to direct some delay to be granted by the District Attorney on certain terms.

No statute forbids such a course, and if a payment in part is made or additional security furnished, in cases where great hardship, embarrassment or insolvency is shewn to exist, and an application is made in consequence of some of these circumstances, indulgence has frequently been given. But the power of permitting some indulgence before an action is commenced, is supposed by the Attorney General and the Solicitor of the Treasury to belong to the latter office, under the Act of Congress of May 29, 1830; most and in times and cases like the present, when the favorable construction, which may be legal, should be followed—the Department is disposed, in conformity to the advice and opinion of those law officers, to sanction a delay by him under like circumstances, and to a like extent before suit or afterwards. Upon the occurrence, therefore, of cases of the character previously described, whether before suit or after, and whether at your port or elsewhere, similar indulgences on similar terms could and undoubtedly would be allowed with pleasure on seasonable application in each case—the extent of the delay being regulated by the facts of each case, and the existing and probable wants of the Treasury at the time it shall be presented.

But should applications of this kind become numerous, or extend to several bonds very large in amount, difficulties unfortunately would arise under the existing laws and the present state of the Treasury, not only to the parties but to the public, in postponing payment for any considerable period.

In the first place all parties and sureties upon Bonds unpaid after due, are expressly disabled by the 62d section of the Act before referred to, from having credit upon any other duty Bond.

The language is, "No person, whose Bond has been received either as principal or surety for the payment of duties, or for whom any Bond has been given by an agent, factor, or other person in pursuance of the provisions herein contained and which Bond may be due and unsatisfied shall be allowed a future credit for duties until such bond be fully paid or discharged. In the next place the condition of the Treasury, during the remainder of the year, will, probably, be such, whether looking to the estimates submitted by the Department to Congress at the commencement of its session in December last, or to the actual state of things at this time, as to create serious inconvenience and embarrassment to the public interests in meeting the public engagements, should the payment of all the duty Bonds outstanding in the United States and amounting to several millions of dollars, be postponed in their collection, either before or after suit, until the time requested by the Committee.

This will be very manifest from the following data. The aggregate receipts into the Treasury during the year 1837 having been estimated in the last annual report at $24,000,000, and the appropriations asked for by the respective Departments with the usual anticipated contingent having amounted to about $27,000,000, it was then suggested that this would require the expenditure not only of all the estimated accruing receipts, but nearly three millions of the five reserved on the 1st of January, 1837, from distribution among the states.

Congress, however, in the course of the session, appropriated not only those three millions of excess, but over five millions in addition, making an aggregate of more than thirty-two millions, and by this means, a charge was imposed on the Treasury to the extent of eight or nine millions beyond the estimated receipts during the year.

The expectation of a recurrence of an extraordinary excess of revenue during the present year, which may have been contemplated by some, and have formed the ground on which so large appropriations were made, was never entertained by this Department. Nor does any such expectation, judging from the receipts of the first quarter and the first month in the second quarter of the present year, seem likely to be verified. On the contrary, assuming the hypothesis, that a similar amount of unexpended appropriations will remain at the close of the present year, as did at the close of the last (though in ordinary times they are generally reduced eight millions lower, and should they become so, would increase the deficiency to that extent) the postponement of the payment of any considerable amount of Bonds to the first of January next would make a deficiency in the means of the Treasury highly probable. To postpone the payment of the many millions, falling due at all the ports in the United States, would render this deficiency inevitable.

Comparing the present condition of the country with a former period of similar revulsion in trade, when in 1819, from causes somewhat analogous, the mercantile interests were exposed to a pressure to very general and severe, the likelihood seems equally strong in favor of a rapid reduction in the revenue.

The foregoing remarks will explain some of the practical difficulties to be encountered in meeting the wishes expressed by the Committee for the long postponement of the payment of duty Bonds, whether granted before or after suit, and whether in view of the consequences to the merchants, or to the Treasury and the public. But indulgence for thirty, sixty, and ninety days, not extending beyond the first of September, or about the time for arranging the payment of the last instalment of deposite with the States, could doubtless be granted in special cases under the customary terms and circumstances, as before explained, should any parties desire it. But what forbearance the situation of the Treasury may justify in this respect at any future day, cannot now be foreseen with much accuracy. The payment within so short a period as nine months, of such a vast amount to the States as near thirty-eight millions, and which is mostly to be collected through the Deposite Banks, from the mercantile portion of the country, increases the pressure from other causes, on both the banks and the community, and creates a prospect that the revenue accruing for the rest of the year will much decline, and will generally be, as has been the case in April, less than the current expenditures.

Hence, the amount in the Treasury at this time being only about six millions more than is required to be paid to the States, the progress of events may compel a recourse to such other measures as the existing laws authorize, for meeting one of those great crises, or fluctuations in trade, by which, as well as by other contingencies, our present sources of revenue, from intimate dependence upon them, are so suddenly and so largely influenced, and for which, it has been the anxious wish of this Department for two years past, that Congress should effectually provide.

How far the powers of the Department under the Deposite and other Acts are now adequate to this end, need not be considered until a necessity to resort to them shall become imperative. But, at all events, it is manifest, that the present, as well as probably future condition of the Treasury, must be so doubtful, if not straitened, as to prevent it from affording so much incidental or direct aid to the mercantile interest, either individually or through the Deposite Banks, as it would be highly gratifying to this Department to be able to extend. More especially would it be gratifying to do this while that interest is suffering under the present severe pressure, regretted by me as deeply as any one, and the near and probable approach, as well as principal causes of which, according to my views of the subject, I felt impelled from a sense of public duty, however disagreeable the task, to point out in detail in the last annual report, so fully as to render a repetition of them on this occasion unnecessary as well as painful.

This Department cannot close the present communication, without requesting you to assure the individuals connected with the great commerce of your port, of the deep sympathy felt here on account of its embarrassments—of the willingness cherished at this time, as on former occasions, to extend to it every species of relief and indulgence in the power of the Treasury, consistent with the laws and public duties entrusted to its charge—and of the entire conviction entertained, that the high moral character and honorable feelings of the merchants, will not only carry them through the trials of adverse fortune with their usual scrupulous respect for the laws and the constituted authorities of their country, but, by the aid of their accustomed energy, enterprise and indefatigable industry, will ere long relieve them from most of the sufferings occasioned by those disasters, which have occurred so unexpectedly to some and so injuriously to many.

Respectfully yours, LEVI WOODBURY.
Sec'ty of the Treasury.

SAMUEL SWARTWOUT, Esq. Collector of N. York.

P. S. You are requested to give immediate publicity to the above communication.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE CITIZENS OF BOSTON OPPOSED TO THE SUSPENSION OF SPECIE PAYMENTS.

The undersigned have been notified, that at a public meeting, on Friday evening, called of "citizens of Boston opposed to the measures of all the Banks in refusing to pay their bills," they were named as a Committee to consider and report in relation to an address to the people of the Commonwealth, on the subject of the suspension of specie payments by the Banks.

A majority of the Committee had intended to decline acting; but on reflection, believing that the suggestions they propose to offer to their fellow-citizens may have a tendency to allay public feeling and individual apprehension in relation to the extraordinary condition in which the community is placed, they have adopted this mode of making their unanimous report, through the public press, instead of presenting it to an adjourned meeting, which, for causes that have happened since the meeting of Friday evening, and for the reasons hereafter assigned, seems to them not to be required at the time proposed.

Of the right of any portion of the citizens, under a specific call of those opposed to the suspension of specie payments, peaceably to assemble and express their sentiments freely, without the intrusion of those who hold a different opinion; no man who is not prepared to substitute violence for argument, and trample on the Constitution and his own self-respect at the same time, can entertain a doubt.—But, whatever may be the disposition of some, in a moment of excitement, to infringe that right, it is none the less the duty of those who will fearlessly exercise it, to do so with sound discretion, and a just regard to the best interests of the community. While they deprecate a great evil which has suddenly come upon every class of citizens, though without their participation or consent, they will deem it not less their duty to seek to alleviate, and not to aggravate, the injury that must fall upon the public. This can best be done by encouraging mutual confidence and mutual good will; and cannot be promoted by the unwise attempts of some, who have been most active in urging the suspension of specie payments, to turn it to political account, by unjustly ascribing to the government all the mischief growout of over-banking, over-trading, and the wildest insanity in speculation.

That portion of our fellow-citizens who are apposed to the suspension of specie payments, have uniformly been opposed to the real cause of this derangement of the currency; the almost unlimited extension of the present ruinous banking system; and for a series of years they have insisted in all their public meetings and resolves, that evils like those which now oppress the business of the country would sooner or later come upon us, from the system of establishing banks by money borrowers instead of money lenders. In this scheme the State Legislatures have been made the agents of those making too great haste to be rich, who by the excessive issues of paper money have stimulated speculation and forced an artificial value of things, the result of which has unavoidably been to leave us at last without any fixed standard of value in the interchanges of labor and property.

We do not allude to the evident cause of the existing evils for purposes of reproach, but in the hope that now while these difficulties are universally seen and felt, the sound and sensible men among us will seize the occasion to impress upon themselves and upon all, the wholesome lessons of experience which affliction always teaches so much better than prosperity.

The opponents of the banking system, without reference to party, now have before the world, the complete demonstration of the soundness of their principles in the entire suspension of the banks of the whole country, with a paper currency of 160 millions of dollars, no longer convertible into money. Not even the Deposite Banks nor the Pennsylvania bank of the United States, with its 35 millions of capital, have been able to fulfil their engagements to their creditors; an ample demonstration that the mischief lies in the system of fictitious credit capital, created by excessive banking, and not in local or political causes—a system which has resulted in placing on the same level the strongest and weakest banking institutions.

But in the midst of so ruinous an exemplification of the soundness of the doctrines of anti-monopoly and a constitutional currency, it is not the time for exultation or excitement, but for the exercise of prudence, coolness and magnanimity.

The measure of suspension of specie payment has been consummated, and the evil is upon us. No possible efforts in this community, of those who believe it to have been the duty of the banks to adhere to specie payments now as they did in a most disastrous crisis after the war, could at present reverse the decision that has been made; and the aim of all should be to make it fall as lightly as possible upon the community, and especially upon the producing classes, who have in no way been accessary to this state of things.

The point being settled, then, that a meeting of citizens in favor of specie payment could not either enable or induce the banks to resume it immediately, we are led to doubt the beneficial results of an assemblage of people for that purpose, at the present time. Any meeting of those opposed to the measures of the banks, at this moment, will be misconstrued, and if possible perverted by the over-zealous and indiscreet supporters of the banks, into an attempt to incite to acts of violence and outrage upon the security of property. While the community is so excited as at present, in the midst of an entire and sudden revolution, from currency convertible at any moment into silver and gold, to an exclusive paper currency, the end of which no man dares even to conjecture, it is not to be expected that those who have so zealously gone into the measure as an imaginary relief to the community, can justly appreciate the motives of those who doubt its expediency or efficiency. Hence those of us who should be most strenuous, as some of us have been, in urging upon our laboring fellow-citizens, in a popular meeting, the necessity of forbearance, good feeling, and a generous yielding to the sacrifices they must make under a depreciated currency, would be liable to be publicly denounced and privately slandered as the abettors of mobs to tear down the banks. In this way some of those who justify the suspension of specie payments, would have the power to inflict a still greater injury upon the holders of bills among the laboring classes by perverting any public meeting they might at present hold, into the means of exciting exasperation and depreciating the bills.

We therefore deem it a duty we owe the community to request our fellow citizens to defer, at the present time, any public action in relation to the suspension of the Banks. Nothing can be lost and much will be gained by such a course. The effects of the measure, of which no man can now rightly judge, will soon be developed, when it may become imperatively necessary for the people and for the Legislature to act. The apprehension that the Legislature was to be suddenly convened to legalize an irredeemable paper currency, was, as we understand from those who called the meeting of Friday evening, the chief cause for that movement, in order to arouse the people of the Commonwealth against so ruinous an act of legislation. Since the meeting, it has been officially announced by the Committee of the Banks, that no extra session of the Legislature will be called. The Banks have also resolved to adopt a system of mutual checks by inspection to confine each other within safe limits. If this inspection is faithfully conducted, so as to prevent the further issuing of bills, and stop every attempt of any Bank to diminish, transfer or traffic in its own specie, or to depreciate in order to purchase its own bills, the evils that must arise from suspension of specie payment, will be in a great measure relieved. Should an opposite course be taken and a ruinous depreciation of bank bills follow, the prompt interposition of those who are interested in securing the solvency of the banks must be expected by public meetings and by calls upon the Legislature to annul the charters. The banks must be held rigidly to no further issuing of their bills until specie payment is resumed.

In the mean time, while we rely with full confidence on the forbearance of the laboring classes, upon whom a depreciation of the currency always falls most severely; we would urge upon those connected with the Banks the especial importance of regarding, as far as possible, the rights and feelings of that portion of the most numerous and most easily alarmed creditors of the Banks. An earnest desire is felt by them that the Banks would redeem their bills of the lowest denomination. Such a measure would greatly relieve the laboring classes and retail traders, who are subjected to extreme inconvenience in all transactions under a dollar, and liable to imposition in being compelled to part with their bills at a discount to those who are ever ready to make individual gain out of general distress.

Should the Banks adopt this measure as speedily as possible, and the industrious classes be publicly advised by the Committee of the Banks as we now advise them, not to part with their bills at any discount, and not to doubt, without further proof, the disposition of the Banks to redeem their bills as speedily as posible; all the good that could at present by effected by a public meeting, would be better accomplished without such meeting.

The undersigned having deliberately come to this conclusion, respectfully request their fellow citizens to concur in the indefinite postponement of the proposed adjourned meeting.

BOSTON MORNING POST.

TUESDAY, MAY 16, 1837.

☞ We call the attention of our readers to the letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, to the Collector of New York, which is upon the First Page of this day's Post. It will be perceived that the government is anxious to do every thing in its power to relieve the merchants, notwithstanding the wilful misrepresentations of its enemies to the contrary.

Here is the Truth.—If the whole country had pursued a course of prudence similar to that described below on the part of the inhabitants of Newburyport, it would never have experienced the calamities now upon it. The Herald, from which the following is copied, is a decided whig paper, but by its own account the administration has no more do with producing the pecuniary troubles of the present day, than the man in the moon:—

"The Times.—We have had frequent occasion to notice the remarks of the croakers respecting the miserably dull state of trade in our town, and our contrast, by them frequently exhibited, to our disadvantage, between business here and in the large cities. We commiserate the misfortunes of any men, in any section of the country; but it cannot be improper to compare our situation with that of a portion of our less favored fellow citizens. We admit that our business is small; but small, too, are our cares and responsibilities. We earn but little, but we spend less. With a small expenditure we are satisfied, because economy is fashionable. Our mechanics are industrious and our traders are prosecuting a snug but lucrative business; as each revolving year witnesses in general some accumulated capital. They have not been, nor will not be, in the clutches of the note shavers. We shall have few or no failures, and shall keep on the even tenor of our way, unconscious of the desolation which is raging around us, except as reported by the public journals. Here and there an isolated instance may have occurred, where an individual, having his mind absorbed by the engrossing idea of becoming suddenly rich, has purchased rocky barrens, which were well timbered on paper, or village lots, to be peopled by the offspring of his distempered imagination. They have indeed grasped at a shadow and have lost the substance; but they are exceptions to the general rule. Great is the number of men in our large cities at this moment, who have lived in splendor and fared sumptuously every day—men who estimated themselves and were thought by their friends to be worth their thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars, who would gladly exchange conditions with us, poor Yankees."

☞ Let the shoemakers who have suffered from the bankruptcy of their employers, during the present lamentable pressure in the money market, take a lesson from their misfortunes, and never in future trust any large dealer for their wages to an extent beyond which they are willing to suffer. By so doing they will not only prevent misfortunes from happening to themselves, but they will check to a considerable extent the overtrading of the large dealers. If the employer is obliged at certain stated times, and after short intervals, to pay all the men who are in his employ, he will receive frequent and constant checks upon indiscreet enterprise, and will be obliged often to examine his liabilities. The manufacture will not be likely to exceed the demand, and the mechanic will not be likely to suffer in the event of a severe money pressure.

Middlesex.—The official returns of votes for county Treasurer show that the whole number was 5402, of which Stedman Buttrick, (democrat,) had 2809, and John Keyes 2569. The votes of eleven towns, including Charlestown, were rejected for informality.

☞ The editor of the New York Herald has been sued for a large amount of damages, for classing several solvent houses among the long list of bankrupt ones, which he published the other day.

Opinions of Merchants.—On the causes of the present pressure that has overwhelmed the community, the genuine and honest opinions of the merchants themselves are worthy of the highest respect. The merchants must necessarily understand the true sources of the evil better than any other class. Yet the sincere opinions of the merchants are very far from being declared in the resolutions of the meeting in New York, by which the Committee was appointed to wait upon the President. Neither are the sincere opinions of the merchants to be found in the Atlas or any other desperate whig paper. Both in the above mentioned resolutions, and in the Atlas, the measures of the late Administration are repeatedly declared to be the primary and almost the sole cause of the present pecuniary evils; and overtrading, and gambling in stocks, and the abominable system of credit which has been practised, are scarcely mentioned. Yet, if you go among the merchants, though violent whigs, they will candidly state to you, that the primary and almost the only cause of the pressure is the erroneous system of trading practised by the merchants themselves; they will acknowledge that the causes of this evil are such as have been chiefly held forth as the causes in the Administration papers. Yet many of them are willing to countenance the farce which the leaders of the whig party are playing—because they are enemies to the policy of the late Administration. The whigs believe they have a grand opportunity at the present time, to frighten the democrats from the ranks of democracy, by making them believe that the present pecuniary pressure has arisen from the policy of General Jackson, rather than from the rashness and folly and exorbitant avarice of traders themselves, whose ruling passion is to grow rich. But they will find themselves mistaken.

Getting Rich.—One of the great moral evils which pervades this community, is, that the great majority of the people are determined to make an independent fortune.—This desire is their ruling passion, and almost the only object of their lives. For this they seem willing to sacrifice not only moral principle, but happines itself. Like the soldier who goes out to battle, with the determination "to conquer or die," our young men seem to commence life with the determination to become either wealthy or bankrupt. They consider it mean-spirited to be satisfied with slow and moderate gains. They wish to jump into an independent fortune as many of our old dons did, just after the revolution, when foreign commerce afforded great facilities to the few who were engaged in it. Industry and economy, though commended in the abstract, are practically despised, and they are completely cast into the shade by the lustre of that modern virtue, which we call enterprise. In accordance with these notions, a young man who is contented to pursue a mechanical art, or who is satisfied with a moderate salary in the employ of others, is regarded very much as a dig is regarded in College—a poor mean fellow who makes up in application and industry, his deficiency in talent. A young man who is contented with a salary, without using any other means for growing rich, is believed to be destitute of ambition—for it is worthy of notice that avarice is invariably called ambition, by the majority of the community. Hence we find young men of all trades and professions, determined to become independently rich. This they know they cannot accomplish without entering into trade. They must all become merchants—or buyers and sellers. They have no money, and they must therefore commence business on credit; and they must commence largely or their profits will advance their fortunes too slowly. They determine to become either wealthy or bankrupt, in a very few years. Hence arises all this overtrading, and from this overtrading arises this general bankruptcy, which now prevails all over the country.

The Maple Tree.—It is remarkable that the maple tree of our forests assumes four different aspects in the course of the year. First in May, when it is in flower, it is filled throughout with bright crimson blossoms, which yield it a most beautiful appearance when beheld at a short distance. As the blossoms fall, the leaves are put forth, till at length, in the summer, the tree is entirely clad in green—this is the second change. Thirdly, in the latter part of September, the whole foliage becomes completely changed in hue, being then of a bright crimson, which it preserves until the fall of the leaf. We can hardly conceive of any greater beauty of foliage, than is presented by the different species of the maple during September and October. Almost all the other trees present rather dull and sombre colors, and it is the maple which yields the principal charm to American forest scenery in autumn. The last change which the maple tree assumes is the nakedness of winter, when, on account of the gracefulness of its proportions and the neatness and elegance of its branches, it attracts the attention of every observer.

Mr Grant says, that "Lord Erskine was for many years without an equal at the English Bar, and perhaps he has never, taking all in all, had a superior, as counsel in our Courts of Law. He affords one of the many instances in the annals of the Bar, in which a man suddenly rises from obscurity into the full blaze of popularity. He could not accept one half the briefs that were offered to him. I have it from one who had it from his own lips, that his practice averaged annually sixteen thousand pounds for many years. He appeared in every cause of importance for a quarter of a century, during which he practised as counsel before his elevation to the Bench. His knowledge of the law, was neither varied nor profound. He often committed egregious blunders from this cause, though the splendor of his parts as an orator diverted attention from them. In his egotism he resembled Cobbett, with this difference, that his egotism was generally pleasant and not injurious to other parties."

A Bow in the Heavens.—The Bank of the Metropolis and the Washington Bank, deposite Banks in the District of Columbia, continue to pay specie for their bills, as do two more deposite Banks in Portland—the Maine Bank and the Cumberland Bank. We are rejoiced to see the followsng in the Globe of Friday night:—

Specie Payments—Post Office Department.—Lest the present state of things should deter men who are disposed to enter into the important mail service now advertised for, through an apprehension that they may be paid in a depreciated currency, the Postmaster General requests us to state, that all claims hereafter accruing against that department will be promptly paid in specie, or its equivalent. We understand, also, that should all the banks in the United States unfortunately suspend payment, that department will in a short time, be prepared to pay in specie all just claims against it, wherever they may have accrued.

☞ We learn from Briggs' Bulletin that a man by the name of Wm. Holland, a painter, jumped from the third story of a house in Columbia street, and was instantly killed.

Who believes this?—Dr Williams, the occulist, says in his advertisement that he will receive no letter unless the postage be paid, even though it may contain his fees!

The drug store of Bush & Hillyer, in Greenwich street New York, was destroyed by fire on Saturday night.

The Independence will sail at six o'clock this morning, if the wind should prove fair.

POLICE COURT.

A Thoughtless Mother.—Bitter were the tears, and agonizing were the gestures of Mrs Driscoll, when she heard the Court sentence her son Cornelius to confinement in the House of Reformation, for stealing specie out of a store keeper's money drawer, and she refused to be comforted; but it turned out upon inquiry, that this very mother assented to the boy's being employed in bowling alleys, to set up the pins, for rolling parties. As she has sown, so has she reaped. As well might she have sent her daughter to be a domestic in a brothel, and expect her to preserve her purity, as to send her boy to a bowling alley in the capacity in which she permitted him to be employed, without paving the way for his moral destruction. We have nothing to say against bowling—it is a healthy and invigorating exercise; but the alleys are open, as the Sun shines, equally to the just and the unjust—the gentleman, the bully, and the black leg. If it be necessary to have a person to set up the pins for a party, let a man be employed, and let the bill be charged accordingly.

Mrs McIntire went the whole figure, in splifficating. Though blessed—(somewhat hard, to be sure)—with seven living children, and an excellent husband, who faithfully fetched home his hard-won earnings, she still sought consolation from the unreverend "Sam Shoe." For the purpose of obtaining his sweet counsel, she would sell the very bread and beef her spouse brought into the house, for the use of the family. Sam used to elevate her spirits, till her mortal clay became soaked through, and lay prone on the floor. Four months.

Dennis Mahoney admitted that he had made a mistake, in hitting John Wilson a clip in the smellers. Dennis had half a fight with one Mike, but was interrupted. In an hour after—having in the meantime imbibed considerable obfiust ficating liquid—he fell in with Wilson, and mistaking him for Mike, he let into him, like an alligator. His Honor corrected the mistake, by making Dennis shell out $7.00 to the Commonwealth.

The following epigram is from Heywood, an old English epigramatist, who was once popular at court; quoted by the Edinburgh Review:—

Two wishers for two manner of mouths.

"I wish thou hadst a little narrow mouth wife,
Little and little, to drop out words in strife."
"And I wish you, sir, a wide mouth, for the nonce,
To speak all that ever you should speak at once."

The Edinburgh Review, American Edition, Vol. V. No. 2.—There are several excellent articles in this number, one of which in particular, we should like to see published in a tract form and distributed round the country. We mean the article on "Evangelical Preaching." We shall make some short extracts from it when there is room in our columns.

☞ The Messrs. White, whose advertisement will be found in another column, have opened a rare assortment of saddlery, in their new store, under the Malboro' Hotel. Many of their articles appear to be superior to anything heretofore manufactured here, or imported. The ladies' saddles, with spring stirrups, are the thing exactly.

The Philadelphia Ledger says—

"We see in all the accounts which have compelled the State Banks to suspend Specie payments, a succession of efforts to coerce the country into chartering another national bank; and of these measures, the merchants, blinded by their political predilections, are the voluntary victims."

☞ Little Fussy of the Herald says it is darn'd hard that the Proprietor of the Perpetual Motion should clear out without paying him for turning the crank, considering that he had to do it in a dark cellar where there was nothing but cobwebs to eat.

The Major's Last.—On being asked if Mr Pierpont's Church was struck by Lightning during the last storm, he replied—"No: but it came Thundering near it."

Mr and Mrs Hield will take a benefit at the National on Thursday evening.

There have been one or two buildings set on fire in Providence, within a few days, by incendiaries.

Mr Curtis's sons have returned, safe and sound, to their home. They went to Framingham on Saturday, and were accidentally left there.

Mexico.—The publication of a letter addressed by Mr Monasterio, the Mexican Minister for Foreign Relations, to the Secretary of State, Mr Forsyth, in which the appointment of a Charge d'Affaires to Texas is held up as an act inconsistent with views previously promulgated by the late President and Mr Forsyth, makes it proper to state, that the message accompanying the nomination of Mr Labranche, as Charge to Texas, is necessary to a perfect appreciation of the course of the late Administration, in relation to the matter discussed by Mr Monasterio. The document to which we refer is not within our reach, the injunction of secrecy not having been removed, which veils it among the proceedings of the private sittings of the Senate. The act of the President we say, was but an acquiescence in the declared will of the Legislature, expressed by resolution, and the provision in the appropriation act. Globe.

Good Spunk.—The Courier des Etats Unis gives an account of the suspension of payment by the Long Island Bank. It continued to pay specie after the stoppage of the New York Banks, and refused the notes of the New York banks in payment or in deposite. "This being known," says the Courier, "several of the principal inhabitants of Brooklyn, repaired to the Bank and begged it to suspend payments in specie. The Bank refused, declaring that it had ample means to fulfill all its engagements In a Republic every public institution ought to submit to the will of the people. A general meeting of the inhabitants of Brooklyn was immediately called. The Mayor presided. A petition to the Banks to suspend their payments was signed by the assembly, and a committee was named to communicate it to the banks. The banks obeyed the will of the people so strongly expressed."

Marine Disasters.—Accounts from Key West to about May 2, state that the hull of the ship Mary Maria, was sold 24th ult. by the Marshal for $2575, and that the net amount paid into the Registry was $2337 56, together with her sails, rigging, &c. The hull and cargo of sch Mary Ann, of Salem, was sold 28th. The hull brought $160; mahogany $40 a 54 per m. ft.; cedar $40 1-2 a 40 3-4.

Sch Harvest, of Castine, Leach, from Penobscot 6th inst. for Boston, with wood, was run down next day by sch Columbus, hence for Bangor. The H. had her bow cut down and foremast sprung, and put back for Castine, but the wind being high, her mast went by the board, and she went ashore in Penobscot bay; hull and cargo lost; sails and rigging partly saved.

Sch Orion, before reported on shore at Tache's Hole, has been lost; and two other schs, one bound North, and the other for Charleston.

Sch Henry, at New Orleans, from Havana, reports that she saw brig El Dorada, from New Orleans, for Texas, badly ashore on the Isle of Pines, 2d inst.—sch Maryland was at anchor near.

The editor of the Boston Herald, says that M'lle Augusta's legs are artificial. We don't believe any thing of the kind. The editor of the Herald must acknowledge one thing, however, that if Augusta's legs are artificial, she has a natural way of using them to the best advantage.—Picayune.

The "Ann Arbor Wolverine," says that not more than one in five of the inhabitants of that place, are what may be termed confirmed drunkards.

COUNTRY SEAT FOR SALE.

A very desirable and healthy situation in Dorchester, on the upper road leading to Milton, about a quarter of a mile this side of Dr Codman's Meeting house, and about 4½ miles from City Hall, consisting of a well built two story house, stables, &c. with all the usual conveniences for a genteel residence. The house commands an extensive view of the harbor and surrounding country, and is considered to be one of the most pleasantly situated houses in the vicinity of Boston. The premises contain about one and a half acre of land, laid out in a garden with gravelled walks, &c., and stocked with about 150 trees of the most esteemed varieties of fruit, in a bearing state, consisting of apples, pears, peaches, plums, cherries, &c., and an abundance of grapes of the most hardy kinds. Any person wishing for a permanent residence in the country, the above offers many advantages, as it fronts the south, and has the sun in winter from the rising until sitting. The premises can be examined at any time, and possession given immediately. The principal part of the purchase money may remain on mortgage if desired. For further particulars inquire of E E. NATHANIEL GREENE, Postmaster.

SALT WATER BATHS.—The subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public in general, that he has opened the Bath House on Craigie's Bridge, for warm gathing, and will continue open every day in the week during the season. AUGUSTUS GRANT.

m1

INCORRUPTIBLE PORCELAIN TEETH.—The subscriber returns his sincere thanks to the citizens of Boston for the liberal patronage he has received from them during the last year—he has now removed his office to a more central situation, and owing to the great number of teeth inserted by him daily, he is enabled to reduce his terms at least 50 per cent on all operations from this date. The average price for the best Porcelain Teeth will be, on gold plate $3, pivot $1 to 1 50, filling and cleaning 75 cents to $1, and all operations warranted for the term of five years. He will continue to visit persons at their residence and complete any operations in two visits half an hour each. He has within the last three years instructed several Dentists in this city, who are now practising with great success.

The hours of business will be from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M. and rom 3 until 9 P. M. CHARLES J. HOUPT,

Hanover street, one door from Portland st.

N. B. A complete set of 24 teeth to masticate with ease, for a person that has no teeth, will be ready for inspection in one month, and one hundred dollars will be paid on presentation for a better specimen of workmanship. jan19

ALBANY AND TROY PACKETS.—REGULAR LINE.

Schooner	VISSCHER,	Owen Bearse, master.
"	GRECIAN,	A. Watson, "
"	BENJ. BIGELOW,	F. Wells, "
"	VICTOR,	John Cammett, "
"	DEBORAH,	D. A. Allen, "
"	STRANGER.	Nelson Bearse, "
"	NIAGARA,	Andrew Lovell, "
"	ALBANY,	Edwin Scudder, "

These vessels are all of the first class, with experienced masters, who are likewise first rate pilots.

The owners of this line, to avoid detention by head winds and shoal water, in the narrow and shoal part of the river near Albany, have purchased (to be used by this line) the Steam Boat "WADSWORTH," as a tow boat and lighter, which, with the lighter Grampus, of ninety tons, built the last season expressly for this line, they think will prevent the delay hitherto experienced at that place, and insure punctuality and dispatch. Merchandise by this line, destined to places on the northern, western or Ohio Canals, northern and western Lakes, &c. &c. &c. will be forwarded by the Agents without delay.

These packets will sail regularly on Wednesday and Saturday of each week, from opposite No 15 Long whf, north side, Boston, and from the piers at Albany and Troy.

The patronage of the public is respectfu ly solicited.

Agents at Boston—BANGS & ALLCOTT, 15 Long wharf.

Agents at Albany—GAY & WILLARD, 104 Pier, foot of State st. Agents at Troy—GAY & WILLARD, 189 River street. eptf mh3

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

AN account of that most excellent Medicine prepared at Dr Loveman's Gilead House. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by appointment in Boston, at D. S. ROWLAND'S, 188 Washington street, Boston.

"To administer to a mind diseased, pluck from the Memory a rooted Sorrow,
"Raze out the written troubles of the Brain, and with some sweet oblivious Antidote,
"Cleanse the foul Bosom of that perilous stuff which weighs upon the Heart."

Dr. LOVEMAN'S Balm of Gilead is universally acknowledged to be peculiarly efficacious in all inward wastings, loss of appetite, indigestion, depression of spirits, trembling or shaking of the hands or limbs, shortness of breath, and consumptive habits. It thins the blood, eases the most violent pain in the head and stomach, and promotes gentle perspiration. By the Medical Faculty this medicine is much admired being pleasant to the taste and smell, gently astringing the fibres of the stomach, and giving that proper tensity which a good digestion requires.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead is recommended to the weak, the relaxed, and debilitated, as an agreeable and speedy restorative; and considered as a cordial, is essential to the comfort of ladies of fashion, being a preventive against cold, when taken before going out to parties, balls, routs or the play. It will enliven the spirits and invigorate the mind and body, and if taken after fatigue, it will with a few hours sleep, take away all languor consequent on broken rest, and give relief from every unpleasant sensation.

It is a most valuable remedy for such diseases as are attended with the following symptoms, namely—a great straitness of the breast, with difficulty of breathing—violent palpitations of the heart, sudden flasces of heat in various parts of the body—at other times a sense of cold, as if water was poured on them—flying pains in the arms and limbs, back and belly, resembling those occasioned by the gravel—the pulse very variable, sometimes uncommonly slow, at other times very quick—yawning, the hiccough, frequent sighing, and a sense of suffocation, as from a ball or lump in the throat—alternate fits of crying and convulsive laughing—the sleep unsound, and seldom refreshing, and the patient often troubled with horrid dreams. Much has been said by interested individuals against Medicines that are advertised, but there is a very important observation to be made respecting Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead, that unless its operation was gentle safe and efficacious, it could not have obtained the unexampled demand it has acquired.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

"Without Health we can enjoy no Fortune;
Honors, Riches, and all other advantages are useless."
HIPPOCRATES.

This Cordial has been uncommonly successful with young people who have the appearance and air of old age, who are pale, effeminate, benumbed, stupid, and even imbecile; whose bodies are become bent, whose legs are no longer able to carry them, who have an utter distaste for every thing, and are totally incapacitated. Where the stomach is frequently disordered, the body is weakened; paleness, bodily decay and emaciation succeed, and the eyes sink into the head. The virtues of Dr Loveman's Balm of Gileadare demonstrated, in oradicating the worst and most dangerous symptoms of nervous debility, and nothing has tended so much to establish the fame of this medicine, as its certain success in those complaints which strike their roots so deep in the constitution, and are so fatal to the happiness of mankind.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead has risen in repute with every trial of its efficacy. Some, perhaps, unacquainted with its
